Shakin' Not Stirred Benefit to Raise Money for Parkinson Research

Knoxville, Tenn., May 5, 2011 – The KiMe Fund which focuses on finding a cure for neurological disorders, with an emphasis on Parkinson's disease will host its next fundraiser on Sunday, June 12 from 6:00 p.m. – 9:00 p.m. at the Cru' Bistro and Wine Bar located at 11383 Parkside Drive in Turkey Creek-Knoxville.

“We are very excited about this special evening. Our goal is to create a series of fundraising events, starting with ‘Shakin’ Not Stirred’, that are fun and informative while providing donors an opportunity to contribute to funding research for finding a cure for Parkinson’s,” said Steve Hodges, Founder and Chairman, KiMe Fund. “We know there are many who have Parkinson’s or know someone close to them with this disease. With the help from our donors, I am confident that we will reach our objective of finding a cure. We sum up our efforts as ‘care, contribute and cure.’ Our event will support the KiMe Fund as well as the University of Tennessee Cole Neuroscience Center Movement Disorder Clinic.”

Donations accepted by May 30. Visit www.kimecnd.org to learn more.

The KiMe Fund was established in 2010 through the East Tennessee Foundation (ETF), a 501(c) (3) nonprofit community foundation. “KiMe” is the founder’s shorthand for his daughters Kim and Megan. It is symbolic of the drive to cure neurological disorders for the next generation of children everywhere.
